The Chamber maintains a close relationship with government officials to make doing business in the Central Pennsylvania Region the best it can possibly be. The Chamber studies state and federal issues, takes positions that encourage economic well-being in the Valley and effectively communicates the voice of business owners to appropriate elected officials and government offices.

“I was impressed with the open atmosphere and obvious value they place upon relationships and networking (at the Breakfast Briefing). Having an opportunity to share a brief description of my new business was wonderful, and I got to hear from each member regarding their own work. This made it easy to know who was ‘in the room’, and for each of us to recognize who we should take the time to connect with directly. After the meeting, I was able to easily connect with a number of folks, and it felt like this was time very well spent!”

- Rich Earl, Good Ground Coaching
